

Traditional Brazilian beverage Internationally awarded

Alambic Cachaca is produced from the natural fermentation of sugarcane juice.

Cachaça Dona Benta is distilled in copper stills.

Bassi Silver Cachaca is ready after its carefully selected ingredients have been stored in peanut wooden barrels for resting and aging at least for a period of one year.

Bassi Gold Cachaca is composed of cachacas rested for one year in peanut wooden barrels and aged for another year in european oak barrels.

Cachaca was the first distilled drink in Latin America.

Bassi is always in search of quality, with innovative concepts and being at the forefront of the region. Bassi was the first cachaca from Parana, Brazil, to win the Golden Star seal awarded by the International Taste & Quality Institute (ITQi) in Brussels, Belgium in 2015, through a blind test that was applied to a jury of sommeliers from different countries, linked to the most renowned gastronomic guides in Europe.
